Structure of web application

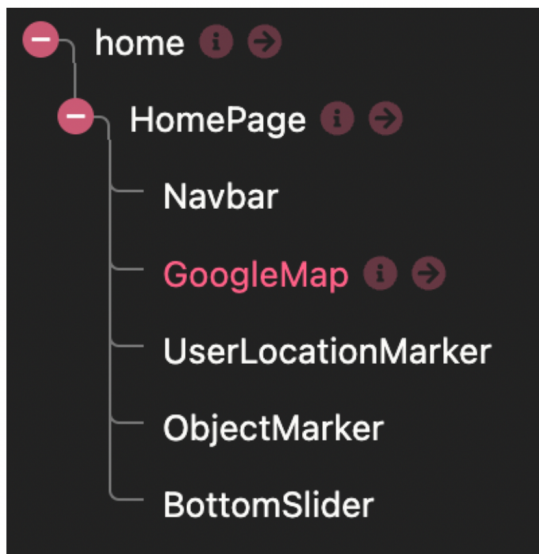

Every page and component corresponds to the .tsx file, so for each node depicted in a diagram below you can find a file in the src folder.

Application Flow

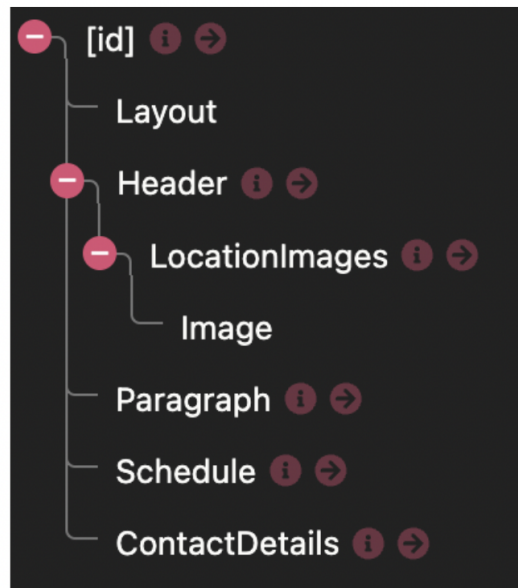

Components

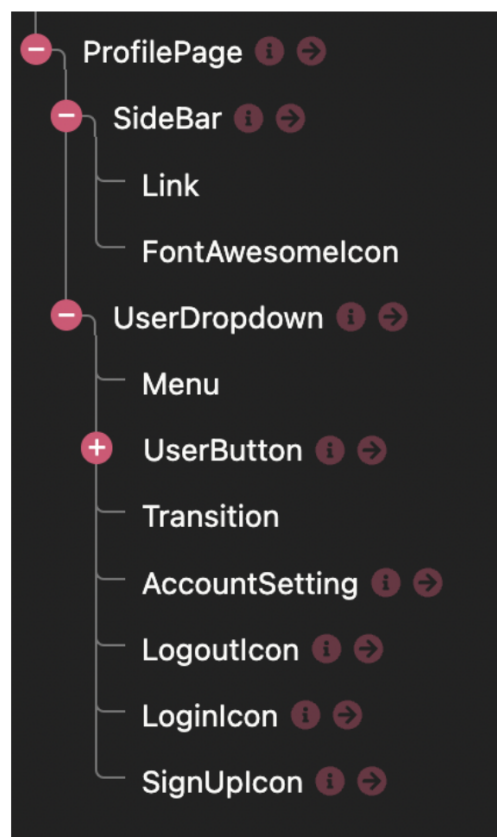

Below you can see component trees for some complex components.

Data and API

Our application stores user information in the database, such as user credentials and list of favourite places and events.

For information about location and events themselves app uses feedfactory API, specification of which can be found here <https://app.thefeedfactory.nl/api-doc/>
